

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR AN EXCEPTIONAL CULTURAL LEADER

Culture Director (Ref. P00504)

£30,000 per annum based on a 25 hour flexible working week (this equates to a full time salary of £43,800 per annum). This appointment will initially be for 22 months.

This is an opportunity for an exceptional cultural leader to join the Exeter Cultural Partnership, working in partnership with the University of Exeter.

Formed in 2010, Exeter Cultural Partnership (ECP) represents the city's cultural practitioners and organisations including libraries, museums, heritage, arts as well as sport, health, education, business and tourism organisations. Our mission is to contribute to a city where a rich cultural life enriches the experience of everyone living in, working in and visiting Exeter.

ECP working in partnership with the University of Exeter, which nurtures its own varied arts and culture programme, is looking for a Culture Director with ambition and energy. In this new role you will make a real difference, unlocking the potential of a culturally vibrant city, home to a range of award winning organisations and companies showcasing both emerging talent and well established programmes. Your task will be to nurture this rich cultural ecology, delivering a step change in our strategic impact, overseeing planning and implementation of a comprehensive communications strategy and growing our partnerships beyond the sector and beyond the city and region. At a time of exciting potential and reduced public funding your role will be to work with the sector to find innovative ways of creating a sustainable future.

Based at the Royal Albert Memorial Museum this will be a University of Exeter appointment funded by ECP.
